

Transcription of a Western Daily Press article

on the Annual WI Show

September 1967

Colonel wins a victory – for jam

Retired Colonel C. H. Bowker won a victory on Saturday – with his jam.

And his wife, president of Charlton Horethorne WI, near Wincanton, won two trophies at the annual WI show.

Mrs Bowker, who gave away the principal awards, regained the Sir John Jardine cup, for floral artistry, which she last had two years ago. She also won the Katy Butler award for handicraft.

Colonel wins a victory – for jam

Western Daily Press Reporter

Retired Colonel C. H. Bowker won a victory on Saturday — with his jam.

And his wife, president of Charlton Horethorne WI, near Wincanton, won two trophies at the annual WI show.

Mrs. Bowker, who gave away the principal awards, regained the Sir John Jardine cup, for floral artistry, which she last had two years ago.

She also won the Katy Butler award for handicraft.

Child

This year's show was well supported with 388 exhibits in 65 classes.

Main awards. The Ethel Hole Memorial cup, highest marks in section open to Charlton Horethorne and district cottage gardeners, WI members and amateurs, Miss E. White. The Ursula Gambier produce prize, Mrs. M. Keady of Holton, near Wincanton, for most points in domestic section.

The Sir John Jardine cup, most points in floral decoration classes, and Katy Butler award, for handicrafts, Mrs. C. Bowker. The Mary Robinson trophy, most successful child exhibitor, Janet Metherall of North Cheriton near Wincanton.

Child

This year's show was well supported with 388 exhibits in 65 classes.

Main awards, the Ethel Hole Memorial cup, highest marks in section open to Charlton Horethorne and district cottage gardeners, WI members and amateurs, Miss E. White. The Ursula Gambier produce prize, Mrs M. Keady of Holton, near Wincanton, for most points in domestic section.

The Sir John Jardine cup, most points in floral decoration classes, and Katy Butler award, for handicrafts, Mrs C. Bowker. The Mary Robinson trophy, most successful child exhibitor, Janet Metherall of North Cheriton near Wincanton.

